

School's Enrollment Remains Diverse

The ethnic diversity at Jakarta International School remains a major factor in making us an exceptional institution. With the total number of nations represented at JIS in the 2007-2008 school year at 59 we truly are an international school community, which a glance at the accompanying charts and tables will elucidate.

At the time of writing we have 2,460 students and from the nearly 882 applications to JIS for this academic year we enrolled 516 new students.

We continue to welcome new applications from suitably qualified candidates.
